[Act 41 of 1992]

[29th December, 1992]

An Act to provide for the regulation of production, supply and distribution of infant milk substitutes, feeding-bottles and infant foods with a view to the protection and promotion of breast-feeding and ensuring the proper use of infant foods and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Statement of Objects and Reasons.—Every child has a right to be adequately nourished as a means of attaining and maintaining health. Infant malnutrition is a major contributory cause of high incidence of infant mortality and physical and mental handicaps. The health of infants and young children cannot be isolated from the health and nutrition of women. The mother and her infant form a biological unit. Breast-feeding is an integral part of the reproductive process. It is the natural and ideal way of feeding the infant and provides a unique biological and emotional basis for healthy child development. The anti-infective properties of mother's milk protect infants against diseases. The effect of breast-feeding, on child spacing, on the health and well-being of the mother, on family health and on national economy is well-recognised. Breast-feeding is, therefore, a key aspect of self-reliance and primary health care. It is, therefore, essential to protect and promote breast-feeding and to protect pregnant women and nursing mothers from any influence that could disrupt it.

2. Inappropriate feeding practices lead to infant-malnutrition, morbidity and mortality in our children. Promotion of infant milk substitutes and related products like feeding-bottles and teats do constitute a health hazard. Promotion of infant milk substitutes and related products has been more extensive and pervasive than the dissemination of information concerning the advantages of mother's milk and breast-feeding and contributes to decline in breast-feeding. In the absence of strong interventions designed to protect, promote and support breast-feeding this decline can assume dangerous proportions subjecting millions of infants to greater risks of infections, malnutrition and death.

3. In the light of the foregoing considerations and in view of the vulnerability of infants in the early months of life to the aforesaid risks and the risks involved in inappropriate feeding practices including the unnecessary and improper use of infant milk substitutes, feeding accessories and infant foods, it has become necessary to regulate the marketing of such products. For the proper nutrition and health of the world's children, the World Health Assembly adopted in May 1981 an International Code for Marketing of Breast Milk Substitutes. The Government of India recognised this Code and adopted the "Indian National Code for Protection and Promotion of Breast-Feeding" (hereinafter referred to as the Code) in December 1983.

4. The Code envisages that there shall be no advertising or other form of sales promotion of infant milk substitutes, feeding-bottles and teats. The Code, in accordance with this general principle enjoins the health authorities to encourage and protect breast-feeding and also prescribes several measures to control the marketing and promotion of infant milk substitutes, feeding-bottles, teats and infant foods.

5. The Bill proposes to give effect to the principles and aims of the Code. Accordingly, it prohibits advertisements of infant milk substitutes and feeding-bottles and also prescribes measures to ensure that in the marketing of infant milk substitutes no impression is given that feeding of these products is equivalent to, or better than, breast-feeding. The provisions relating to labelling and quality control of infant milk substitutes, feeding-bottles and infant foods are proposed to be implemented through the Departments concerned in the State Governments and Union Territory Administrations under the overall control of the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare. Contravention of the provisions of the Bill will be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees, or with both. However, the contravention of certain provisions of the Bill relating to labelling or quality control of such substitutes or foods will be punishable with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than six months but which may extend to three years and with fine which shall not be less than two thousand rupees.

6. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objects.

(3) No further appeal shall lie against the order of the court made under sub-section (2).

20. 21. Cognizance of offences.—(1) Save as otherwise provided in Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), no court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under this Act except upon a complaint in writing made by—

<sup>31</sup>[(a) the Designated Officer or the Food Safety Officer directed under sub-section (5) of Section 42 of the Food Safety and Standards Act, 2006; or]

(b) an officer not below the rank of a Class I officer authorised in this behalf, by general or special order, by the Government; or

(c) a representative of such voluntary organisation engaged in the field of child welfare and development and child nutrition as the Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, authorise in this behalf.

(2) Where a complaint has been made by a representative of the voluntary organisation authorised under clause (c) of sub-section (1) and the court has issued a summons or, as the case may be, a warrant under sub-section (1) of Section 204 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), the Assistant Public Prosecutor for that court shall take charge of the case and conduct the prosecution.

CASE LAW ▶ “Offence” and “prosecution for offence”—Distinction.—There is an essential distinction between an offence and the prosecution for an offence. The former forms part of the substantive law and the latter of procedural law. An offence is an aggregate of acts or omissions punishable by law while prosecution signifies the procedure for obtaining an adjudication of court in respect of such acts or omissions. Kapur Chand Pokhraj v. State of Bombay, AIR 1958 SC 993, 997 : 1959 SCR 250 : 1958 Cri LJ 1558.

▶ Cognizance of offence.—As to when cognizance is taken of an offence will depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and it is impossible to attempt to define what is meant by taking cognizance. Issuing of a search-warrant for the purpose of an investigation or of a warrant of arrest for that purpose cannot by themselves be regarded as acts by which cognizance was taken of an offence. Obviously, it is only when a Magistrate applies his mind for the purpose of proceeding under Section 200 and subsequent sections of Chapter XVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure or under Section 204 of Chapter XVII of the Code that it can be positively stated that he had applied his mind and therefore had taken cognizance. Narayandas Bhagwandas Madhavdas v. State of W.B., AIR 1959 SC 1118 : (1960) 1 SCR 93 : 1959 Cri LJ 1368, 1373.

The word “cognizance” has no esoteric or mystic significance in criminal law or procedure. It merely means — become aware of and when used with reference to a court or Judge, to take notice of judicially. “Taking cognizance does not involve any formal action; or indeed action of any kind, but occurs as soon as a Magistrate, as such, applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence.” Ajay Kumar Palit v. State of W.B., AIR 1963 SC 765 : 1963 Supp (1) SCR 953 : 1963 (1) Cri LJ 797, 801.

31. Subs. by Act 34 of 2006, S. 100 (w.e.f. 29-7-2010).

22. Offences by companies.—(1) Where an offence under this Act has been committed by a company, every person who, at the time the offence was committed, was in charge of, and was responsible to, the company for the conduct of the business of the company, as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly:

Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall render any such person liable to any punishment, if he proves that the offence was committed without his knowledge or that he had exercised all due diligence to prevent the commission of such offence.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where any offence under this Act has been committed by a company and it is proved that the offence has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the company, such director, manager, secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section,—

- (a) “company” means any body corporate and includes a firm or other association of individuals; and
- (b) “director”, in relation to a firm, means a partner in the firm.

CASE LAW ▶ Offence committed by society or company.—Natural persons are made vicariously liable for an offence when it is established the offence was committed by a company and these persons had some means with the crime either because of their connivance with or due to their criminal negligence which had resulted in its commission. Municipal Corporation, Delhi v. Bhagwan Dass, 1972 Cri LJ 1433; see also Municipal Corporation, Delhi v. Deepak Kumar, 1974 FAC 496.
