The Payment and Settlement Systems Act, 2007¹

[Act 51 of 2007]

[20th December, 2007]

An Act to provide for the regulation and supervision of payment systems in India and to designate the Reserve Bank of India as the authority for that purpose and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Fifty-eighth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Statement of Objects and Reasons.—The payment and settlement systems serve as a backbone of financial system of a country. In India, a host of payment systems are in operation ranging from manual paper-based clearing to the Real Time Gross Settlement (RTGS) System for facilitating non-cash mode of payments. The various retail payment systems in operation include the manual paper based clearing, MICR Clearing, Electronic Funds Transfer Systems (including the Electronic Clearing Services), Card Based Payment Systems, Government Securities Clearing, Forex Clearing, etc. The paper-based cheque processing is operated and managed by the Reserve Bank of India at the four metro centres, whereas at twelve other centres it is operated by public sector banks and managed by Reserve Bank of India, while at the remaining centres it is operated as well as managed by certain public sector banks. Clearing houses are not legal entities but voluntary bodies of banks who have come together for the expressed purpose of clearing payment instruments and instructions. The rules and regulations for the functioning of clearing houses are contractual in nature. Among the large-value payment systems, the Real Time Gross Settlement System is operated by the Reserve Bank of India while the inter-bank Government Securities and Foreign Exchange Clearing Systems are at present operated by Clearing Corporation of India Ltd. (CCIL). A new National Payments Corporation of India would be taking over the operations of retail payment systems. Both these corporate entities will be outside the specific regulatory purview. The operations of Card Based systems is not under the regulatory purview of the Reserve Bank of India, however, the Bank is indirectly regulating it through the card issuing banks.

2. The Central Board of Directors of the Reserve Bank of India under Section 58(2)(p) of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 is empowered to make regulations of clearing houses for banks and under 58(2)(pp) of the said Act, to make regulations of fund transfer through electronic means. These regulations are adopted by the members of the clearing houses by way of contractual agreement.

3. The procedure of netting (arriving at the multilateral net settlement) is not legally recognised but has been adopted as a working procedure adopted by the members of the clearing houses.

4. In view of the above, it is considered necessary to enact a specific legislation which will, inter alia, empower the Reserve Bank of India to act as the designated authority with the following powers and functions, namely:—

- (a) to regulate and oversee the various payment and settlement systems in the country including those operated by non-banks like CCIL, card companies, other payment system providers and the proposed umbrella organisation for retail payment;
- (b) lay down the procedure for authorisation of payment systems as well as revocation of authorisation;

1. Received the assent of the President on December 20, 2007 and published in the Gazette of India, Extra, Part II, Section 1, dated 20th December, 2007, pp. 1-14, No. 62

- (c) to lay down operational and technical standards for various payment systems;
 - (d) to call for information and furnish returns and documents from the service providers;
 - (e) to issue directions and guidelines to system providers;
 - (f) to audit and inspect the systems and premises of the system providers;
 - (g) to lay down the duties of the system providers;
 - (h) to levy fines and impose penalties for not providing information or documents or wrongfully disclosing information, etc.; and
 - (i) to make regulations for carrying out the provisions of the proposed legislation.
5. The Bill, inter alia, seeks to provide for the following matters, namely:—
- (a) to designate the Reserve Bank of India as the designated authority for the regulation and supervision of payment systems in India for their smooth operations;
 - (b) to give legal recognition to the netting procedure and settlement finality; and
 - (c) to empower the Securities Appellate Tribunals to settle disputes between the Reserve Bank of India and the system providers.
6. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objects.

CASE LAW ► Meal vouchers.—Alternative payment/settlement system cannot be construed as “goods”, for purpose of levy of octroi or local body tax (LBT) — As per Section 2(31-A) of Maharashtra Municipal Corporation Act, 1949, LBT meant a tax on entry of goods into limits of city, for consumption, use or sale therein. Appellant Company was conducting business of providing pre-printed meal vouchers to its customers i.e. establishments/companies having a number of employees on their rolls and had arrangements with various restaurants, departmental stores, shops, etc. (affiliated) for utilisation of vouchers. Appellant resisted imposition of LBT on ground that establishments with whom it had entered into contracts was for providing services and not for sale of any goods. The Supreme Court held that appellant was only a facilitator and a medium between affiliates and customers and was providing services. Further, vouchers were printed for a particular customer and used by the said customer for distribution to its employees and the vouchers were not transferable at all. Further, in view of Section 17 of Income Tax Act, value of such free food and non-alcoholic beverage provided by an employer to an employee was treated as expenditure incurred by employer and amenity in hands of employee. In this case, held, Sodexo Meal Vouchers were not "goods" within the meaning of Section 2(25) of 1949 Act and, therefore, not liable for either octroi or LBT, Sodexo SVC India (P) Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 16 SCC 479.

8. Revocation of authorisation.—(1) If a system provider,—

- (i) contravenes any provisions of this Act, or
- (ii) does not comply with the regulations, or
- (iii) fails to comply with the orders or directions issued by the designated authority, or
- (iv) operates the payment system contrary to the conditions subject to which the authorisation was issued, the Reserve Bank may, by order, revoke the authorisation given to such system provider under this Act:

Provided that no order of revocation under sub-section (1) shall be made—

- (i) except after giving the system provider a reasonable opportunity of being heard; and
- (ii) without prejudice to the direction of the Reserve Bank to the system provider that the operation of the payment system shall not be carried out till the order of revocation is issued.

(2) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) shall apply to a case where the Reserve Bank considers it necessary to revoke the authorisation given to a payment system in the interest of the monetary policy of the country or for any other reasons to be specified by it in the order.

(3) The order of revocation issued under sub-section (1) shall include necessary provisions to protect and safeguard the interests of persons affected by such order of revocation.

(2) The Central Government shall endeavour to dispose of an appeal under sub-section (1) within a period of three months.

(3) The decision of the Central Government on the appeal under sub-section (1) shall be final.

CASE LAW ► Validity of regulation.—Mere absence of power to grant interim relief does not make appeal provision invalid, A.J.K. Fernandez v. RBI, (2010) 6 CTC 745 (Mad).
